

Can I see which classes will show up in a table before going through the effort to add it into my webpage?

Last Modified on 05/07/2019 5:07 pm EDT

Yes, you should always check the validity of your code first by previewing the url section of your code in a browser. To view the table results in a browser (outside your website), replace the OpeningsJS part of the code with OpeningsDirect and paste the entire url (starting with https) into a browser window. For an example, see the video for filtering.
