The color of the Register links doesn't show up well.

Our code provides the links in industry standard bright blue (color #0000FF). If your links are a different color on your webpage (or you want them to be a different color), you will need to edit your CSS rule that controls the color of links in your website. This rule typically looks like a: link {color: #0000FF;} in your CSS and you will need to edit the hex color number or name. Jackrabbit can not access nor control your web editor settings nor rules. Contact a webmaster for assistance with CSS.
